ILLNESS CANCELS UN Sees RAINIERS' VISIT

The three-day visit to Brit-ish Columbia by Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco has been cancelled, L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, announced today.

Mr. Wallace said the visit was cancelled "because of the indisposition of Her Serene Highness Princess Grace and the illness of one of her children."

"It is sincerely regretted that British Columbia is un-able to be host to their Serene Highnesses and their chil-dren."

Princess Grace suffered a miscarriage Wednesday night. She had been expecting her fourth child in January. The royal couple and their children had been scheduled to leave Quebec City Wednesday and travel to B.C. by train, spending Sunday and Monday in Victoria.

Princess Grace was in satisfactory condition today in Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal after spending what her press attache described as a "good night."

Dief Supporters Jolted By Entry of Stanfield

OTTAWA - Nova Scotia

Premier Robert Stanfield's entry into the Conservative leadership race has all but closed the door on important new candidates, political observers say.

Biggest loser is leader John Diefenbaker, who has not yet said whether he will seek re election at the Sept. convention in Toronto Mr. Diefenbaker had the support of most of Nova Scotia's 164 delegates but now almost all are committed to Premier Stanfield. Staunch Diefenbaker supporters saw the entry Premier Stanfield as a plot by national president Dalton Camp to undercut the Tory chieftain.

With so many candidates in the race Mr. Diefenbaker had a strong chance of winning until Premier Stanfield came in, the pro-Diefenbaker forces known to have been in close consultation prior to Premier Stanfield's announcement.

Canada Has UFO Landing Pad But No Takers

By VICTOR MACKIE Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA-The Canadian government 13 years ago made available the Defence Research Board-experimental station at Suffield, Alberta, as a safe landing site for unidentified Flying Objects, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer has revealed.

However no UFOs accepted the government's

This prompted a Canadian committee investi-gating UFOs to conclude that if the so-called "flying saucers" were in touch with Canadian communications they would have taken advantage of the opportunity to land without being molested.

It was additional evidence, in so far as the special committee was concerned, that no evidence had been produced to prove they did exist.

Suffield base is a one thousand square mile restricted tract of land over which no aircraft, defence or civilian, was allowed to fly without special

The idea behind the classified project was that if any UFO tried to make contact with the earth it could land at the DRB station without being shot down by defence interceptors.

Mr. Hellyer said he is still keeping an open mind on whether flying saucers exist.

This turkey roast comes with its own giblet gravy and cooks in its own roasting pan. (It doesn't mess around yours.) You simply brush on a little butter and slip it in the oven. (Frozen. You don't even have to thaw it.) Set out the plates and soon you'll be slicing off a thick, scrumptious, turkey feast that will positively spoil your family. Boneless, all-meat (white, and dark), high-protein and irresistibly tender. The Tidy Turkey makes you an instant heroine, lets you enjoy all the pleasure of turkey dinner without any of the fuss and bother. And one more thing. When its all gone, (and it will be gone) that roasting pan might just make a dandy planter.

Financing World Trade

nance ministers from the "Big Ten" Western trading nations failed again to reach agreement on a new international monetary unit, the failure did not noticeably dampen the optimism of any of the participants. The fact that increased trade in the non-Communist world will soon be dependent on the ability of the nations to readily finance their exports and imports has become apparent. The technical barriers to adding to present stocks of gold, currency and credits for international payments settlements no longer seem insurmountable.

The wide gap in the views of the 10 governments apparent just a year ago has come down to one main point. Britain, the United States and Canada want any newlycreated international monetary unit to be a first-line reserve asset which could be held by the central banks. France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Holland, Belgium and Sweden don't want a new international currency but rather a new credit arrangement within the International Monetary Fund with stringent repayment provisions and a Common Market veto on implementation of any contingency plan.

The dickering over a new international monetary unit has been going on for four years now and while the question was still rather academic at the start of negotiations, the opportunities for increasing trade among the non-Communist nations as a result of the Kennedy Round success have made it a more urgent matter. It seems to be accepted by all the nations involved, much more so than it was four years ago, that there soon will not be enough liquidity, that is uncommitted gold or dollars or authorized IMF credit, to allow the major basic principles have been nations to trade as freely as is de- settled.

A LTHOUGH THE MEETING IN sirable. France and Germany in particular were most cool to the idea of creating a new monetary unit four years ago when they were riding the crest of an export boom and piling up heavy international payments surpluses. The slowing down of their economies in the past year or so - partly as a result of their export trade falling off - has made them much more anxious to co-operate and to bring their Common Market partners with them.

In the end a compromise agreement will most likely be reached for much the same reason that the Kennedy Round succeeded despite stiff obstacles - that is because to fail would bring jarring consequences. Inability to find a new monetary unit would tend to split the non-Communist world into rigid financial blocs with the Europeans likely ending up in a form of gold settle ment for international trade and the United States, Canada and Britain possibly forming a dollar-sterling area. The restrictions this would impose on trade would be crippling for the weaker members and would even be economically unsettling for

Time to reach a settlement is growing rather short. Some sort of reasonable plan must be ready for presentation to the International Monetary Fund meeting in Rio de Janeiro in September in order to maintain confidence among the more than 100 members of that organization in the ability of the "Big Ten" to achieve financial reforms which will increase trade. It may be a situation which seems to be deadlocked right down to the wire but as Canadian Finance Minister Sharp pointed out after the London meeting, the areas of agreement among the "Big Ten" are now greater than the disagreements and

Struggle in the Kremlin

THE DOWNGRADING OF MR. Alexander Shelepin-long the most outspoken "hawk" in the Kremlin - has been interpreted as a victory of the moderate faction led by Premier Kosygin, Secretary Brezhnev and President Podgorny over the Soviet Communist Party left-wing. Mr. Shelepin was "elected" to the post of party trade union leader but deprived of his place in the party secretariat, a much more prestigious and influential sphere of operation.

One indication that the moderate victory may not be so complete as it seemed on the surface was that it was necessary for Mr. Shelepin to be shuffled out of the one job and into the other by unconstitutional means, something which the party leaders have attempted to avoid since the beginning of the de-Stalinization program by former Premier Khrushchev. The Shelepin removal from the secretariat took place at the Politburo level immediately after the adjournment of the meeting in Moscow of the Central Committee which, under the Soviet constitution, is the only organ of the party empowered to take such ployed may indicate that the leftist grouping in the Central Committee is still a strong force. The Kosygin-Brezhnev-Podgorny group may even have feared a coup by the left-wing faction since they can hardly forget that they themselves used the Central Committee to oust Mr. Khrushof the security police, kept the former premier immobilized in the

If this latest change in the Kremlin's power grouping presages yet another "fractional" struggle in the Communist Party, it may make Soviet-Western dealings even more difficult. The Kremlin moderates will be under a compulsion to hew to a fairly tough line in order to carry the party's leftist wing with them and this will present the West with a very tricky problem of not over-responding to a degree which destroys the moderates' leadership. If it is accepted, as it seems to be, that the technicians of government who are at present in control of affairs in Russia are to be preferred to the Shelepin faction with its overtones of Stalinism, then it would seem unwise for the West to make any moves which would jeopardize

Impeding Under-Developed

Virtually all countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America, except for South Africa, Japan, Australia and New Zealand, have annual per capita incomes of less than $500. The report says that these countries' own self-help efforts have been hindered by inflation, social inequality, emphasis on industrial development without concomitant development in agriculture, lack of educational motivation and technological expertise, trade barriers and suspicion of the roles of private enterprise and foreign capital; to say nothing of rapid population growth and chronic disease and malnutrition.

The report is concerned with trade and not with the rest of this lamentable growth of export earnings in low income nations in the past decade has been slow in relation to their need for imports to sustain development programs. Most of

It is true that 100 years of Confederation have not succeeded in establishing the most complete harmony between English and French-Canadians, in creating that equality of treatment that was aimed for in 1867 and in preventing confrontations between the governments of Quebec and Ottawa.

Since when in a family does someone refuse to celebrate a golden on silver anniversary because 50 or 25 years of marriage have not been a honeymoon at all times?

An anniversary, like that which Canada is celebrating now, should not be approached in a negative fashion only, but in a positive way. It is an occasion to prepare a list of gains acquired and of objectives remaining to be attained.

At a time when Quebec is seeking broader powers in order to expand its activities on the international scene, it is illogical to retire within oneself and to refuse to open oneself more to the Canadian reality.

Chance to Speed Growth

The second United Nations Trade and Development Conference will be held in 1968. This "will offer an opportunity for the high income countries to put forward a comprehensive program to help speed the low income countries' economic growth." Some of the report's suggestions for such a program:

• High income countries should gradually eliminate import and consumption taxes on tropical products not competing with products produced in the income countries; and they should essist low income countries in reorienting their economies away from products which there is a world surplus.

• High income countries should reduce domestic subsidies and price supports and liberalize quotas on agricultural products when such action would likely lead to increased imports from low income countries. They should also gradually end tariffs and quotas on raw materials and foodstuffs not subject to domestic managed markets.

 Increased export of manufactured products is essential to low income countries, especially those lacking exportable natural resources. Yet high income countries increase their protection the more an imported basic material has been processed or fabricated. This protection should be reduced.

• High income countries sh support a supplementary finance plan to prevent low income countries' development plans from being disrupted by unexpected export shortfalls; and they should co-ordinate their policies for trade, aid and investment to help accelerate low income countries' economic growth, and agree on a compres hensive trade expansion program.

Absent from the recomm the idea for a general preference to be granted by high income countries toward manufactured products of low income countries. The latter countries have made much of this scheme since the first UN conference in Geneva in 1964. some initial advantage if they are to penetrate markets now held "by producers in the high income countries.

Preferences

Fears of market disruption cause the high income countries to balk at such proposals. The report suggests that certain initial preferences might granted in the case of producers in low income countries who are clearly within the reach of international competitive ability. It also suggests that low income countries get the benefits of future tariff reductions as soon as they are negotiated while the reductions are staged for high income countries over an extended transitional period.

Not "Anti"

I must congratulate you on your very fine editorial "De Gaulle's Europe". Rarely have I read a more unbiased and sane article on this very serious problem which faces such a large segment of the world. One does not have to be anti-American to wish to remain un-American and as far as I have seen the problem, after many years abroad, there are countless numbers of people who just do not wish to accept the American pattern.

Curiously enough they feel that they have more to offer the world with their own culture than by trying to ape the American way of life which is so heavily based on money and ecomomic pres-

I have just read the article by John Mika in Friday's edition of your paper.

Facilities Needed

I have no time or desire to get involved in splitting hairs about the uses of a paddling pool which was built nearly half a century ago to accommodate the needs of Central Park in the "good old days," and I think we playground supervisors should be highly commended for doing such fine work with young people. Adequate facilities should be provided to help us do a first class job. We have the training and ability; we want to use it to advantage. Think of what we can save the community by giving these kids a sense of achievement and direction!

My assistant supervisor, who hails from Edmonton, says all the high schools there have swimming pools . . . what have we? Crumpets and tea, and maybe an "anachronism" from London in the near future to further titillate our tourists, but what about the kids who live here all year round?-(Mrs.) Kay Dixon, 2640 Roseberry.

The name of the failure was Pincher Creek, a gas discovery in 1947 that was as important, in its way, as the Leduc oil discovery earlier the same year. Looking Back From The Times of July 20, 1907. Ottawa-A bulletin issued by the census department today shows 391,487 wageearners in 1905 with salaries paid of $164,394,490. This compares favorably with 344,045 wageearners and $113,-249,350 in salaries in 1900. The report also showed that the

Half-Hearted, Half-Happy

All that did happen and last week there was hope that a half-hearted, halfhappy ending might yet be written to the Pincher Creek Saga. The plant operator has applied for permission to run 90,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day from another field 15 miles away to its Pincher Creek plant and into the Trans-Canada supply stream.

How could such a gigantically and costly blunder have been committed in the Pincher Creek estimates? The error was almost 100 per cent. That is, reserves that turn out to be around a trillion cubic feet were estimated to be 1.8 trillion. The reservoir engineers will say that theirs is still an inexact science, plagued with imponderables. They have to base their guesses, on the behavior of gas in a reservoir of porous rock that spreads over many square miles, on what they can learn from core samples a few inches in diameter.

Pincher Creek, understandably, is not the only blunder they have made.

Doubts Raised

All these wild heaves by the brain trusters raise legitimate doubts about their forecasts of our long range gas reserves—the 30 years' supply everybody says we have ahead of us. Fortunately, the drillers keep coming up with more and more discoveries that pvercome the potentially disastrous results of the engineers' bad guesses.

The crowning irony of it all is this: If the original blunders had not got the Trans-Canada and Westcoast projects off the ground, there would have been little incentive for anybody to drill more wells. It has been the drilling of these wells that got the engineers off the hook and saved the people of Canada from paying an exorbitant price for their mistakes, LONDON-Manners, like corsets, can be seen as a sad restriction on natural grace or as a way of making the best of what you have.

In the case of American manners, the people with the first idea showed a rugged determination to have free manners for a free society, while the others for centuries tried to prove they were as civilized as any European.

Historically, it made for a confusion which reached its peak in the speech of Belle Starr, horse thief; when her hat blew off she waved her gun at her husband shrieking, "Get down there and pick it up, you ignorant bastard. Haven't you got any manners when you are with ladies?"

This contrast is the main meat of a large, shapeless and highly entertaining book called "The Polite Ameri-cans" by Gerald Carson, who is presumably one of them.

There are a lot of good things about Mr. Carson. He ands an immense amount of scholarly detail from the type of New England plate that had a "dinner side and a pie side" to the precise degree of social unaccept-ability of saying 'leave them

Alas, it must be admitted that the poor man fairly drowns in the vastness of his subject, though he comes up with an intelligible bucketful now and then on some clearly defined subject like beards or duels-including the duel that Lincoln was challenged to when, offered choice of weapons, he said, "How about cow dung at five paces?"

Carson is oddly weakest where one expects most-on the manners of America now, why and the wherefore. But I can see why he doesn't go into this. For its mere mention is easy enough to madden the readers.

You have only to record a fact (which I am having the prudence to make up) like, They eat off gold plate in Edgbaston, off newspaper in Aston," for the indignant letters to pour in: half from Edgbaston saying how dare I say they eat off gold, half from Aston asking what's wrong with newspaper any-way. However much you try simply to state a fact, you are ing or critical.

The force of this feeling is so strong, in fact, that I nder if even simple prejudice or social insecurity can fully explain it. Is it possible that people get so angry in any discussion on social behaviour because this is the way they define themselves, out their own personal

With actual geographical territory weakened by the tendency of General Motors to post its executives to Los Angeles, with the cosy closed boxes of class smashed by everyone's determination to climb into the next one up, it is possibly the nuances man's behavior and taste that do establish his position nowadays and sneering at "status symbols" only tries to disguise this essential fact.

Whether this is so or not, there's one thing that this book makes entirely clear: The total futility of the ideal of non-manners. To hope for a society in which nothing but "natural" manners exist is on a par with the instruction, "If you can't behave like a lady don't behave at all." Any society has habits, and to "good" manners is merely to chooose one pattern in preference to another—and a book like this reminds you that there's quite often cases when bad manners is not so much a matter of drinking out of the finger bowl but of spitting on someone else's skirt.

The American appetite for distinctions, too, is apparently almost as widespread as the appetite for martinis, affection and freedom. If you can't be a viscount, you can be an exalted ruler of the Nomads of Avrudka or Miss Can Opener 1967; you may not be the head of a clan of 70, but you can hardly avoid being of J. Walter Thompson's 140 vice-presidents. It's a solemn warning to those egalitarians who want to give underdog everything he ever wanted except a tag on his collar.

The Americans had as good a chance as anyone has ever had of reducing manners to a minimum; but that was the last thing they chose to do. Did you know, by the way, that it was to an illegitim son that Lord Chesterfield wrote all those letters.

Sex Excites the Censors

Not long ago, I raised a little storm by suggest-ing in a letter to the Guardian, that it was not desirable for German sausage to be available in a relatively cheap package form in the cafeterias of English railway stations.

Was I, then, taking a stand against the totally permissive, and promulgating that all food should not be available to all people? To this, I reply unequivocally: that is what I was suggesting.

Before derision breaks upon my head for snobbishly and dictatorially dividing people into two categories, table d'hote and a la carte, I hasten to say that the above para-graph is exactly that which appeared in a recently published book (taken seriously in some quarters) except for the Instead of "German sauson's reference to De Sade, "minds unprepared or untrained to take a long, cool look at him."

Sadly, however, looks even at that eminence aren't al-ways long and cool; kinky tastes and monstrous behavlour are not measurable by either class or educational slide-rule. As we all know (if we care to remember), reports of society divorces biographies of the well-bred show that the diversions of rich and professional classes may be more elegantly discreet but could easily the material for a Last Exit to Brompton Road.

Man Inconsistent

Ideally, if man did dwell on spiritual plateaux appropriate to specific talents it would mean that to be able to perform a violin concerto exquisitely or know the lan-guage of pure mathematics would invalidate, say, a taste for dirty photographs or predilections for nymphets; but man is not thus consistent, and the lvory tower of culture has many underground tun-

Some regard must, unfortunately, be paid to the means whereby Miss Hansford Johnson urges this policy to her livid style and technique of excitation of passion rather than thinking, about gagging writers. These are some of her phrases: "... to explore whether there was not, in our increasingly permissive society, some compost - heap of rottenness such ugly weeds could flourish and grow "The all - permissive, the

"swinging society": under its Big Top, the whole garish circus of the new freedom to revel, through all kinds of mass media, in violence, in pornography, in sadomaso dustbin. . . . Now, apart from the hot flush, the untruths, the absurdities, the exaggerations, and the rabble-rousing hysteria of that kind of writing, there is a general contention running through it that everything was nice and well-regulated up to about a decade ago. Suddenly something went hideously wrong.

Hell Broke Loose

All hell broke loose, is the idea, round about the time that food rationing ended and rock 'n' roll started. Orgies with everything. The Ugly It would be tedious and unnecessary to set against this taradiddle the case far more capable of documenta-tion: that, despite its imper-fections, we live in an altogether more decent, kindly, and concerned society th that seemly past invented by Miss Hansford Johnson. Has Miss Hansford Johnson

It is conceivable that Jack the Ripper and Bluebeard could both afford forbidden erotica not then available, on bookstall racks, so as to crystallise their dark impulses - in which case the pricemechanism did not solve the problem.

On the other hand, long before the Swinging Sixties the young have been assaulted either unlettered or too morto mouth through even pristine News of the World, so who were anyway beyond the compass of the ce-mechanism.

Furthermore, it seems improbable that Christie was a student of Magnus Hirschfeld and his textbooks on necrophilia. Lolita hadn't been published when Straffen was first blearily focusing on little

Better Taraets

The preoccupation of all would-be censors is, of course, sex. Behind all the cries of horror at the grotesque warp-ings of the sexual urge is a mucl: more basic emotion: fear and hatred of sex itself, of its raptures, its force, its murder literature: "Musing about murder is apparently 'healthy'; musing about sex-ual enjoyment is not."

Death, in fact, when not disturbs the censorship campaigners, curiously little. The exual murder of a child is indeed horrible, but not more of children, families, villages, townships, by aerial b

Moreover the party leader or some other spokesman will appear on television with every new development. The independent has none of these advantages. He is on his own. As mayor of Trois Rivieres, Mr. Montrain had already made a name for himself before he was elected to Parliament. He was one of the most violence in his city.

In fact our recollection is that the mayor of Trois Rivieres and the mayor of St. Catharines were the only civic authorities along the long stretch the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterfront who had any conception of what Hal Banks and the Seafarers International Union were up to, and who were determined to stop the violence.

waterfront

Mr. Mongrain is a thoughtful, compassionate man whose ideas about society are firmly rooted in religious teaching. If one needs another example of how the culture and the style of French Canadians differs from that of English Canadians it is found in the natural and unassuming manner in which a Quebec politician will discuss at length and in public the religious basis of his political views.

During the Commons debate on the estimates of the Department of National Health and Welfare, Mr. Mongrain made an appeal to those in a position of authority in the country, to take an even more sympathetic attitude toward misery, the destitute, the poor, the have-nots, the low-income people and the

That reads like a moderate statement, In the exaggeration of politics, there is sudden power in an unexpected moderation. Mr. Mongrain based his concern upon the Papal encyclical Populorum Progressio from which he quoted the following:

"Freedom from misery, the greater assurance of finding subsistence, health and fixed employment; an increased share of responsisecurity from situations that do violence to their dignity as men; better education — in brief, to seek to do more, know more and have more in order to be more; that is what men aspire to now when a greater number of them are condemned to live in conditions that make this lawful desire illusory.

"There is also the scandal of glaring inequalities not merely in the enjoyment of possessions but even more in the exercise of In this connection he quoted Cardinal

Leger: "It is not true that a Christian should have a sickly fear of state intervention in the economic life. Nor is it true that a Christian should be obsessed by anti-socialism."

The more this member of Parliament had the implications of Populorum Progressio, the more he had become struck by the extent it seemed to provide a religious under-pinning for those objectives for which democratic socialists have been striving. On the subject of the underprivileged he said: "It is inadmissible that so many Canadians should go without the basic minimum. We must abolutely provide for that. In that connection I am one of those who approve the persistent requests of our friends from the New Democratic Party."

Aside from these frank comments about how the social teachings of the Church appear to relate to the political scene, there is a very perceptive theme about the boredom of idleness, of illness and of age.

There is also a wry sense of humor: "When

I read the encyclical I had the impression that the Holy Father has become a supporter of the New Demorcatic Party, and he tends a little Lonely independent though he may be, Mr. Mongrain will be watched with interest in the next session of Parliament,

SHOUTING RED GUARDS INVADE SOVIET AREA

MOSCOW (UPI) Mobs of up to 1,000 shouting Red Chinese have invaded Soviet territory several times, stormed frontier posts and tried to provoke border guards to mutiny, the Kremlin said Wednesday.

The Communist newspaper Pravda indicated the Chinese border attacks in Siberia within the last six months were attempts by Peking to start a "cultural revolution" in the Soviet Union.

The incidents were the most serious Chinese violations of the tense, 5,000-mile border reported here in recent years.

Pravda said the Chinese Red Guard mobs were organized by military men "disguised in civilian clothes," who whipped the Chinese into "loud and ruffian crowds."

SPROUTING beard with a purpose is Bob Evans of Duncan. When that growth on his face is long enough he's going to chop it off and make bucktail flies. Bob, a sporting goods store operator, first grew the beard to advertise Cowichan Timber Carnival's beard-growing contest. Since he has put up first prize of a $150 Winchester centennial rifle at the Aug. 12 event, he will not enter the contest himself. All being well, he hopes to earn a good salmon dinner instead. Here he compares his potential bucktails with a commercial fly.

B.C. Plans Being Made For Expo 70.

Details are being worked out for B.C. participation in the next world's fair — Expo 70 in Osaka, Japan.

Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Eoffmark said no com-missioner has been appointed yet to plan and carry out provincial part in the affair.

But he meets Canadian com-missioner for exhibitions Pat-rick Reid later this month to discuss the B.C. role.

Premier Bennett said Tuesday B.C. will co-operate with private industry in putting the province on display at Osaka.

Commercial and industrial firms in B.C. have been contacted by letter from the trade department seeking co-operation in the fair.

But it is not decided in what way the firms would be expected to contribute financially, or how much would be spent putting across the B.C. image.

Mr. Bennett indicated that recommendations from Mr. Loffmark will be sought before financial or theme requirements

Development Will Increase Estate Value

The Cedar Hill Cross Road and Shelbourne commercial area has "a tremendous future," it was stated at a board of inquiry in Victoria Law Courts Wednesday.

"It has a great future as a commercial and business centre, serving the needs of the Gordon Head area," said real state appraiser Philip Jackson.

"It will also serve those mmercial, business and professional requirements that are generated by universities."

Mr. Jackson referred to the University of Victoria, and said he expected there would be four times as many students on the campus in 1992 as there are

He is giving evidence before a three-man board of inquiry appointed to consider the value of a 120-acre property on the McRae estate expropriated by Saanich council.

The land is almost as big as Beacon Hill Park, in an area surrounded by residential de-velopment. The Cedar Hill Golf Course, which is leased out, covers nearly half of the property.

EXPERT EVIDENCE

George and Jack McRae, and their sisters, Kate and Helen, are the children of George McRae, who came to this area from New Zealand in 1882 and ought the land.

Two years ago, Saanich rate-payers approved a referendum which included money to purchase the McRae estate. idea behind the acquisition was to dedicate and maintain a green area in the midst of urban

Experts are being called to estimate the value of the land. It is understood Saanich has offered $750,000 while the Mc-Rae family has asked for $2

Robert Price, appearing for the McRae family, said the property has been used extensively for dairy farming.

Mr. Jackson, called as an expert witness by Mr. Price, ostimated the value of the property as $3,070,000, having regard to its future potential.

He quoted from a report by T. W. Loney, municipal planner for Saanich, and said the area is surrounded by valuable prop-

Mr. Loney said the most direct way to reduce the cost of land per dwelling unit is to building from single family homes to multiple family

FAST-GROWING AREA

Mr. Jackson said the Univer-sity of Victoria is close to the estate and special permission can be obtained to build apartents in this area, although it is not yet zoned for

He added that South Gordon Head, close to the university campus, is the fastest growing area in the capital city region.

"It will receive the full impact of apartment area development between the Mc-Rae estate and the university," Mr. Jackson said.

He quoted part of Mr. Loney's report to Saanich council, which ""It has been the experience of many developers that the high acquisition cost of land, coupled with the increase in construc-tion costs, has priced the single family residence out of reach of a large proportion of potential

"If the land cost per dwelling unit can be cut by increasing the density of development, the builder can regain part of his lost market.

"The most direct reduce the cost of land per dwelling unit is to increase the density of development, e.g. building from family homes to multiple family accommodation."

The inquiry is being conducted by a three-man board consisting of Richard Anderson, Vancouver, chairman; Ian Horne, QC, and Douglas Peaker, Victoria.

There is a line in Arnold's "Literature and Dogma" tailored to fit The Shoe . . . "Conduct is three-fourths of our life and its largest concern."

Shoemaker is a 35-year-old example of what happens when you don't eat your spinach. At five-five, 106 pounds he would barely make a snack for Don Leo Jonathan, the rassler, or the B.C. Lions' Mike Cacic. (Mr. Cacic is a delicate 267).

But on the bridle paths, Shoe is another story. Sort of an unsanforized Paul Revere. Give him a horse with the usual number of legs, a clean carburetor and he will win 24 per cent

No cavalry pilot under licence is close to his all-time victories, over 5,500 at last count. Only John Longden rode more winners (6,032) and Longden gave up riding horses for house-mothering them last March.

A fortnight ago Shoemaker promised to leave Hollywood Park and ride at Exhibition Park's Centennial Day at the Races, on July 18. The negotiations were handled by Len Stroud, former executive of the Jockey's Guild.

B.C. Jockey Club officials were as happy as participants at a Ukrainian wedding. They had put out a special program offering among other prizes a car and a mink coat. They spense hot dogs and cold drinks (to warm suckers) for a dime. They were giving away everything but winners.

Shoemaker was prominent in all the pre-race day advertising, in newspapers, on radio and television.

Last Friday Stroud advised the Jockey Club's Merv Peters that Shoemaker had to make a personal appearance Monday at the cleaners, also known as the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

The Jockey Club promptly cancelled a Sunday afternoon

About noon Monday as Tuesday's entries for Hollywood and Ex Park clattered into this office, it was noticed that Shoemaker was named on horses a both courses. His feats are legendary but this seemed a long stretch for a guy with short

A call was placed to Harry Filion of the B.C.Jockey Club. Mr. Filion's reaction was explicit: "Art! Ugh! Migawed!"

From that point (2 p.m.) until 11 p.m., there was sufficient long-distance business between Vancouver and Hollywood for Bell Telephone to declare an extra dividend. The Jockey Guild's Stroud admitted that Shoemaker would

Shoemaker was finally located. (He hadn't been with the "cleaners:" he had just finished a round of golf.)

Unfortunately, he said, he had a stakes engagement at Hollywood and couldn't get out of it. There was some vague talk about the Hollywood stewards insisting he stay.

Merv Peters, director of traffic at Vancouver, was less than impressed. "If Shoemaker has a stakes committment, he must have had it when he promised to come two weeks ago."

Peters contacted John Maluvius, his counterpart at Hollywood. "I don't know anything about this," Maluvius said. "But I'll find out. I don't like it." At Vancouver, the Jockey Club's Jack Diamond, was not available for comment.

Mr. Diamond is fond of small children and horses and people who keep their word. "Mr. Diamond," said Filion, "can't come to the phone now." Then laughing, sickly: "He's locked in a closet, screaming and pounding the walls."

Asked if Diamond couldn't use Shoemaker's "excuse" as a lever to get him to Vancouver later, Filion said: "If that little !●£½?" ever comes near here, he will be greeted by Mr. Diamond's firm fingers around his neck."

To the Jockey Club's credit they handled the affair with dispatch. They notified all media as soon as possible. When absence was explained at the track there was a bare ripple of dissent.

If any indignation could match Diamond's, it was that of Longden. "I talked to Shoemaker Friday morning. He told me he was coming Sunday. When I mentioned that Vance (Longden's son) was high on a filly Shoemaker said he would be glad to ride her. Longden told Peters: "I'm really embarrassed. If I hadn't had such a big finish (on George Royal before 58,000 in the Juan Capistrano) I'd have gotten on those horses. If 11,000 turf lovers at Vancouver were disappointed at getting Longden for Shoemaker they didn't show it. They gave Longden a tumultous ovation when he was introduced:

He said, "I would like to apologize for one of my colleagues who failed to keep his commitment to you today."

Longden had commitments too. He trains for Frank

Jockey Suspended

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)-Walter Blum, one of the na-tion's leading jockeys, was suspended Wednesday for the remainder of the Hollywood Park meeting and 30 additional days.

The ruling of the track's board of stewards said Blum had "associated with undesirable persons" and made false statements when accused of associating with "known touts and convicted fellons."

The former national jockey champion's conduct, the board decided, was "detrimental to the best interests of the pub-

Wrong Clue Leads Man to Treasure

by the Rover Scouts in the centennial treasure hunt contest. "Drivers beware" made George Carter, 642 Canterbury, think of the Saanich liquor store near his home and the slogan "drivers don't drink." This interpretation of the clue led him and his wife to find one of the medallions -

Centennial society officials say "under a blanket of steel" was the clue that should have been used — referring to the medal hidden under the railway tracks. $\dot{}$

The fourth set of clues released today for the four yet-tobe found medallions are:

- China has one too.
- · Some of me came around the Horn.
- Near a diamond.
- Watch the tables and keep your feet dry.

Last date for finding the medals is Aug. 14. Three more sets of clues will be issued for treasure seekers before that time. Prize money will be awarded in a ceremony Aug. 31.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Preserve Your Sanity— Soothe Fido's Nerves

By PENNY SAVER

The Saver family has done many strange things in its time, out one of the strangest was the camping trip we took with our dog a few summers ago. Denver (named Denver for no reason in particular) loves going for drives, whether it's to the corner store or half-way up the Island. However, we were going camping 'way up in the Rockies for two weeks and were reluctant to board our pet, so we decided to take him on that long drive. He was all over the car at once, looking for the most comfortable lap and the best view, and barking at everything that moved. By the time we arrived we were exhausted, but Denver was in fine trim and ready to go rip-snorting through the wilderness at break-neck speed, or plunging into the icy lake water. When we recovered from the trip, we were glad of his company, but that drive was enough to make us decide we'd never try it again.

Then the other day I went to buy Denver a new while I was in the shop I found an item that made me think maybe Denver can come camping again this year. It is a specially designed tranquilizer for dogs who get the figgets during a long drive. Safe and non-habit forming, one tranquilizer is effective from six to 12 hours, and the dosage may be safely repeated every six hours. ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY The Last Was the Best

The last annual garden party to be given by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes took place at Government House on Wednesday afternoon.

His Honor's second term of office finishes this fall and, as if to help make this the most memorable party of them all, the weatherman added some excitement of 'his own. He brought rain for suspense in the morning, co-operating at the last moment by shining the skies with sunshine. As if to show supremacy, at the close of the property of the supremacy, at the close of the supremacy are suppremacy.

petty officers and admirals, professors and students.

The mammoth gathering was given an extra international flavor by contingents from visiting Japanese and American n a v a l versels. Relinquishing their traditional right, the band of the Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, bowed out to the Japanese. Outside Government House, the visitors' band played with a will, showing a zesty sharing of centennial enthu-siasm by playing "Can-A-Da"

The Great Shapes Are Made

"The Young Thing" by Warners

Would you have a good shape if it weren't for a few little inches? Warner's "The Young Thing" will flatten those few little inches. With nylon and uncovered Lycra to smooth your hips and hold in your tummy . . . to whittle your waist and slim your thighs to make even a good shape GREAT. Lowest Prices — Largest Selection of Wall-to-Wall Broadloom, Broadloom Rugs, Rugs from India and Chinese Hooked Rugs.

Jordans are volume dealers—constantly buying huge quantities of rugs and broadlooms at rock bottom prices. This mass merchandising invariably leaves us with certain qualities, colours or designs that did not sell as anticipated. These overstocked materials must now be cleared away to make room for new Fall shipments.

Any broadloom, any rug that is so classified has been ruthlessly price-slashed! Don't be mistaken-you'll not find every colour in every line on sale—but these close-outs are positively the greatest carpet bargains you've ever seen.

Party Rich With Fun

And so it was with the crowds who gathered at Government House. Wednesday, for the annual garden party. They added humor, color and excitement to an event which is always rich with color and fun. With rain sheeting down scant hours before, many of the female guests were in a quandary about the correct garb to wear — just in case Victoria's famed "liquid sunshine" put in another appearance.

Many were optimistic and came in their gayest summer wear. Others weren't quite so brave, such as one woman who arrived in a thick wool suit, topped by a parka. As the afternoon warmed up, so did she, quickly shedding the furlined topper.

Others, not quite so fortunate, used the lawn.

The soft sloping grass and the proximity to the soothing music of the band proved too much for one gentleman. He leaned back against the slope, tipped his hat over his eyes and fell asleep.

Out-of-towners were squeezing as much enjoyment as possible from their afternoon.

Mrs. R. Ranson, Calgary, was estatic over the beauty of the gardens, which were in their best party colors for the afternoon warmed up, so did she, quickly shedding the furlined topper.

Others, not quite so fortunate, used the lawn.

Mrs. R. Ranson, Calgary, was estatic over the beauty of the gardens, which were in their best party colors for the afternoon. "We have nothing like this at home for color and beauty. Everything looks so clean!"

Two of the visiting U.S. sailors from the USS Chevalier were having a wonderful time, MM2 Garry Herman and MM2 Mitchell Garmany. "This is the first time we've ever been to anything like this before, It's terrific!"

And the soft sloping rass and the proximity to the soothing music of the band proved too much for one gentleman. He leaned back against the slope, tipped

West continued with the queen of clubs and once more South didn't stop to think. He played the king from dummy. East ruffed and returned the queen of hearts and all of a sudden South had a problem. Two tricks were gone where the woodbine twineth and there were potential losers in each red suit.
South thought awhile. Then he thought some more. Then he pondered. Then he communed with nature. Then he cogitated. Then he decided to duck in both hands. East led a second heart. This time South won in dummy.

Then he studied the hand. Then he looked at the ceiling. Then he played a couple of rounds of trumps. Then he looked at the previous trick. Then he played a heart to his ace. Hearts failed to break and he finally gave up. The last heart could be ruffed in dummy but the defenders had three tricks and were going to get a diamond trick eventually.

Look how much time South could have saved if he had done this thinking early and let West's queen of clubs hold the second trick. West would continue with the jack ance, redesign, pruning, etc. $82-6201. of clubs. South would play low from dummy again and ruff in bis own hand. Then he would proceed to make the vice, pione $85-5073.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

CBS deal finishes.

Zany Lucille Ball has to be the wonder of the show

She's been around for longer than she probably cares to rememberd. After many years in motion pictures, she turned to television and her show is still one of the hottest properties on the air despite its age.

Each year she swore she was going to quit. Each year CBS-TV network officials threw up their hands in horror at the thought and wooed her back, always at a substantial increase in money.

This year was no different. The news came out several months ago that she had settled for a cool $12 million. Although the news was out that Lucy was back in the fold with one of television's biggest monetary hauls, the details of the deal were missing. Some of the facts came to light this week prior to the annual meeting of Desilu Productions stockholders.

The deal with the big eye is that future network reruns of the popular program will mean $7,800,000 for Desilu.

up more money from the series via reruns in other countries. $16,000 per segment for 24 episodes, a total of $384,000. to CBS through Aug. 31, 1970.

chev on the program, will be interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" July 30.

ABC says the broadcast will include "personal anecdotes" about the deposed Soviet premier.

What is a tidal bore? A bore is a tunnel or funnel-shaped hole. And a tidal bore is caused by a funnel-shaped bay B or estuary along a coast line. With the help of other geographical features, such a tunnel of land may become a trap for very high tides. The tidal water sweeps in with a rushing wall of water, many feet high. This wall of advancing water is called a tidal bore.

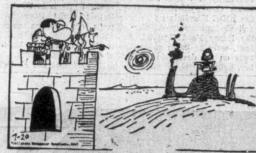

Tides are stronger in some parts of the globe than others. They arrive and depart at different times on different beaches around the world. But all tides are global events and those that reach the shores are merely the edges of gigantic upheavals in the deep oceans. Some shorelines happen to be in the path of extra strong ocean all tides. Here the high tides are tides. Here the high tides are extra high and they bash the shores with extra force. NEGLECT OF VIET AID MAKES DOCTOR QUIT

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Michael C. Hall, a Toronto ortho-pedic surgeon sent to South Vietnam three years ago by the Canadian government, says he has resigned because Ottawa refused to stand behind him.

Dr. Hall said in an interview his requests for financial assistance and equipment were ignored by the external affairs department's aid office. He said he spent the last four months unable to help hundreds of patients. *

"When you see people with legs rotting around you and you know that all the Canadian government has to do to help them is to sign a chit of paper . . . you feel very strongly about it."

Dr. Hall said Canada not only expected the South Viet-namese government to provide his facilities and equipment, but also his housing, although Britain, Australia, the United States and Iran all found accommodation for their personnel, ish Columbia by Prince Rainier and Princes Grace of Monaco has been cancelled, L. J. Wallace, deputy provincial secretary, announced today.

ILLNESS CANCELS UN Has RAINIERS' VISIT

Mr. Wallace said the visit was cancelled "because of the indisposition of Her Serene Highness Princess Grace and the illness of one of her beldwar".

"It is sincerely regretted that British Columbia is un-able to be host to their Serene Highnesses and their chilfor granted that Premier Roblin nor Mr. Camp will run against Mr. Stanfield. Both had been mooted as candidates if Mr. Stanfield did not run. It has been accepted that only one of the three could jump in because their potenconvention delegates will have to make their choice from the eight in the race now with the possible addition of Mr. Diefenbaker, who now emerges as the biggest question mark of the leadership picture. Many Nova Scotia convention delegates had given con ditional support to declared candidates such as Davie Fulton, but these were gent on Mr. Stanfield not ntering the race.

It is acknowledged here that Mr. Stanfield is a potent new force in the leadership pic-ture. If he gets public endorsements from Mr. Camp, Mr. Roblin and others, his hand will be greatly strength-

He already holds the advantage of being the only candidate of stature from outside the federal political scene. Unlike most of the others, his name is not publicly linked with the internal strife has afflicted the federal party in recent years.

Today we start off with a plaint from a troubled pioneer lady, Mrs. L. F. May, of 1130 View Street, who last week pinned her centennial pioneer medallion on best dress and set off to make one at a tea-

All went pleasantly until the affair was over. Then, as the guests were bidding their good-byes, our girl received a snoot-ing that troubles her

Mrs. May's account of the incident goes like this:

felt like I had mine, and cannot forget it.

Let us now shift back, to 1889 and a little two-room shanty on the lone prairie in what is now Saskatchewan.

Papa May and family, with another homesteading couple for guests, are about to sit down to their Christmas dinner when a party of armed, feathered and painted Indians bursts through the door, eats everything in sight, then makes off with a pig and a precious calf.

It seems to me that any well-ripened party with exper-iences of that sort to tell about deserves a medal at the very least. Wear it proudly, pioneer . . . and put that jealous-minded slight clear out of your head!

municipality's dogticket plan-suggested by SPCA director Dave Beeching and urged in this column a good few months ago-strikes me as thoroughly sensible.

For one thing, it will free our over-burdened magistrates of a shoal of picayune cases that cut into time sorely needed for hearings of a more serious nature.

Also, though the owner of a roving dog isn't going to hail a ticket with squeals of glee, he will—or should—appreciate time and embarrassment along with the cash penalty.

That's how it worked in the Washington, D.C., suburb that first introduced dog-ticketing, after all other methods had failed to cure its pooch-on-the-

With the merest pause to report that a duffer golf piece I did for you has somehow rambled its way down to Alabama's Tallassee Tribune, let me snitch some information about Cowichan sweaters from an article by Kathleen Lang in Cowichan

Toward the end of the last came from the Shetland Isles to a home up the present Riverside Road at Cowichan Station; around 1883-1885 she showed the wives of two Indians how to knit into their sweater the Fair Isle patterns of her homeland.

"The Indians adapted the patterns to suit themselves, generally preferring the neutral shades of the natural wool. Mrs. Colvin also taught them how to use the spinning wheel she had brought out

These unique sweaters grew popular around 1910, we are told. Today, as visitors to Victoria might care to note, their reputation has spread far from their native valley. For a lifetime sport garmen warm, confortable and shower-shedding, the Cowichan sweater can't be beat.

That's it, except to spare sigh for a gardening lady of our town who while bending over her posies the other day, got a wasp in her bra. Stabbed her four times, a scout tells me, before she managed to oust the unappreciative insect!

In Rough Seas City Must Ease Taxes

Victoria's Maritime Museum could be forced to close its doors unless city council doubles its financial aid.

Council Told

In a letter to city council, H. A. Wallace, chairman of the museum board, has requested exemption from taxes totalling $5,000 and warned that the museum cannot much longer operate at a loss.

"If the museum continues to operate with losses as foreseen in the proposed budget, it would appear that steps must be taken to curtail or even cease opera-tions," the letter sates. And it adds: "Curtailment is out of the question since operations are conducted at an absolute minimum now."

The last-minute talks between Gromyko and Goldberg were initiated by the Soviet foreign minister.

The ceasefire lines around the Arab territories conquered by Israel were quiet Wednesday.
But statements and reports from all sides underlined the lack of prospects that the council can resolve the issues be tween Israel and the Arabs.

Israel's ambassador to the UN, Gideon Rafael, wrote the presidents of the council and the assembly that his country could not be expected to with-draw from the occupied territories "without any simultan-eous and parallel action by the Arab states to establish a situation of peace with Israel."

COMPLETE TALKS Informants in Cairo said the presidents of Egypt, Algeria, Iraq and Syria at their mara-thon talks in the Egyptian capital which ended Wednesday re-mained determined to carry on the struggle against Israel until all occupied Arab territory is Plants need a day and night A supply of oxygen, just as we do. supply of oxygen, just as we do. However, every green leaf is a natural oxygen manufacturing factory. The work goes on during the daylight hours and the oxygen, you might say, is produced by accident. The greenery is busy using sunlight to convert molecules of water and carbon dioxide into simple sugar, the basic food of all plant life. The process, of course, is photosynthesis — the sunbeam recipe.

Scientists are beginning to understand some of the compli-cated processes of photosynthesis and someday we hope to copy nature's sunshine recipe. The energy of sunlight is used the to rearrange simple atoms and molecules into other molecules.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly agreed today to delay adjourning its Middle East session until at least Friday because of reported progress in Informed sources said the delay was connected with a meeting late, Wednesday of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Growley and U.S. Ambasador Arthur J. Goldberg.

No details were available, however, except that they were considering a com projected by the 122 country assembly July 4.

Deadline for consultations had been set for this morning before Finnish Ambasador Max Jakobson proposed a further recess until Friday. Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pahwak of Afghanistan set the meeting for 3 p.m. EDT Friday after the delegate sagreed to the delay.

Jakobson said: "It might be useful to continue certain talks and consultations for a little while longer."

Andy sends a 14" World Book L Globe to Terri Hoover, age 9, of Matthews, North Carolina, for er question:

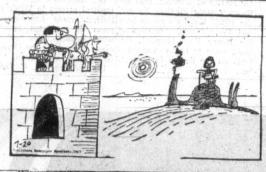

What is a tidal bore? A bore is a tunnel or funnel-shaped hole. And a tidal bore is caused by a funnel-shaped bay or estuary along a coast line. With the help of other geographical features such a funnel of ical features, such a tunnel of land may become a trap for very high tides. The tidal water sweeps in with a rushing wall of A water, many feet high. This wall of advancing water is

Tides are stronger in some parts of the globe than others. They arrive and depart at different times on different beaches around the world. But all tides are global events and those that reach the shores are merely the edges of gigantic upheavals in the deep oceans. Some shorelines happen to be in the path of extra strong ocean tides. Here the high tides are extra high and they bash the shores with extra force. Sometimes such a tide meets a wide river mouth, or a funnel-shaped bay. The onrushing water is pushed into the opening in a neaving wall and we get a tidal
